Magee-Womens Summit

Bringing Together the Best Scientific Minds in Reproductive Sciences and Women's Health

The Magee-Womens Summit is the signature event of Magee-Womens Research Institute (MWRI), the world's largest organization dedicated to women's health and reproductive sciences. Together with UPMC, the largest academically associated health system in the nation, MWRI is uniquely positioned to promote and shape scientific inquiry for women's health topics.

The Magee-Womens Summit will bring together the world's top research scientists, clinicians, hospital administrators, and industry experts with influential policymakers and renowned public health advocates. The Summit culminates in the awarding of the $1 million Magee Prize for collaborative and transformative research within women's health and reproductive sciences.

We invite you to join us for this bold and inspiring event, where we are combining scientific thinking and life-changing clinical care to drive change and improve health outcomes for girls and women around the world.

2024 Summit Themes

- The World Around Us: The Environment
- The World Within Us: Our Microbiome
- The World We Form: Cells to Babies

2024 Summit Themes

THE WORLD AROUND US: THE ENVIRONMENT

How does the environment shape human health, and how can we reimagine science and health care while preserving the world around us? We will discuss how the ever-changing environment shapes our health, modifies our disease risk, and affects our general well-being, as well as new approaches and tools to improve human health in ways that protect our natural resources and do not pollute our environment.

THE WORLD WITHIN US: OUR MICROBIOME

What is our microbiome, how does it impact human health, and how might we modify it and use it to inform the future of disease prevention and health care? We will provide a roadmap on the potential promises of microbiome research and women's health. We will discuss how incorporating the microbiome into current concepts of human health and disease offers the potential to revolutionize the future of how we predict, prevent, diagnose, and treat illnesses in women and their progeny.

THE WORLD WE FORM: CELLS TO BABIES

How can studying the transformation of simple cells to living organisms help us understand human development? We will illuminate key stages in early human development, address novel systems to study developmental milestones, and discuss ways to better understand early health and disease trajectories that may offer new opportunities for diagnosis, treatment, and disease prevention, starting from the earliest stages of our lives.

The Magee Prize

MAGEE-
WOMENS
SUMMIT

Third Magee Prize to be Awarded at the November 2024 Summit

Established as a catalyst for transformational research in reproductive sciences and women's health around the globe, the $1 million Magee Prize will be awarded to a collaborative team for groundbreaking research that changes lives worldwide.

The Magee Prize is based on a transdisciplinary collaboration between a Magee-Womens Research Institute scientist and researchers anywhere in the world, from any relevant biological discipline.

The first Magee Prize was awarded in October 2018 to an international team focused on accelerating cutting-edge research in heart disease.

In 2021, the second Magee Prize was awarded to a collaborative team of researchers innovating vaginal and pelvic reconstruction surgery.

The 2024 Prize Call for Proposals will be distributed globally in December 2023.

We are:

- Finding Hope for Women's Cancers: We are making tremendous strides in the detection, treatment, and prevention of women's cancers. This includes conducting large-scale clinical trials of breakthrough therapies, such as immunotherapy for breast and gynecologic cancers.
- Solving Infertility Struggles: We are helping women with premature ovarian aging and young cancer patients who face infertility after chemotherapy, as well as individuals and families in the LGBTQIA+ community, realize their dream of having a family.
- Decreasing HIV: Magee researchers and the Microbicide Trials Network are making headway in the fight against HIV, seeking to decrease HIV incidences among women in Africa and others at risk throughout the globe.
- Diminishing Infant Mortality: We are reducing illnesses during pregnancy and developing the MOMI Database — one of the largest pregnancy databases of its kind, with records of more than 200,000 births spanning more than two decades — Magee researchers seek to reduce infant mortality by identifying its predictors.
